WILL ERECT MEMORIALS IN CAPITAL

Present Statuary to be Greatly Augmented.

TO HONOR HEROES

Nearly a Dozen New Memorials In All to Be Placed In Nation's Capital at An Early Date.

Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Plans for erecting nearly a dozen new memorials in the nation's capital, already noted for its statuary, are now under way. Congressional sanction has ben given for ten to be unveiled in the near future.

The statue of Gearal San Martin, termed the "George Washington of Argentina," soon to be officially presented by the government of his country to America, has arrived in Washington.

Methodists are making preparations for a memorial to Francis Asbury, one of the country's earliest ministers, which will be unveiled in October. The nuns of the battle fields of the Civil War will have a monument to their memory here, thanks to the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Ored of Hibernians.

"Heroes that sacrificed their lives, that women and children might be saved, in the tragic catastrophe of the sinking of the steamship Titanic" will be honored in a memorial which will overlook the Potomac River. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who recently executed the Buffalo Bill monument, will design this monument. A figure with outstretched arms will symbolize the memory of the deed which the Women's Titanic Memorial Association seeks to perpetuate.

The First Division memorial, commemorating men of the American Expeditionary Force of that fighting organization, has already been erected south of the State and War Department building and will be unveiled in October. A memorial to President Buchanan is to be erected in Meridian Hill Park. Serenity, a gift of Charles Deering of Chicago, is among Washington's future pieces of statuary. A Navy and Marine memorial is in process of preparation.

A memorial to John Ericsson, inventor and constructor of the Monitor of Civil War fame, is to be raised south of the Lincoln Memorial. The state of Pennsylvania is pushing plans to erect a memorial to the memory of Major General George Gordon Meade, commander of the army of the Potomac.

Prominent among proposals for monuments pending in Congress is one for commemorating the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

EXETER PAVING IS COMPLETED

Blocks From Twenty-Third to Twenty-Seventh Street Finished Yesterday.

Paving of Exeter avenue from Twenty-third to Twenty-seventh streets was finished yesterday afternoon. It will be open to traffic in about two days, it is understood.

The four blocks have been made thirty feet wide, conforming base and rock asphalt surface. The work appears to be well done and is doubtles ssatisfactory to the property owners who will pay for it.

Another important part of the work along Exeter is the sewer line which has been laid along the street since the street work has been in progress. Sidewalks are being planned by residents of the south side of the street for a part of the distance in the four blocks.

A representative of the Humbard Construction company states that the remainder of Exeter, that part lying west of Twenty-seventh street will be paved soon, the work probably beginning within ten days.

That part of the street will be made twenty feet in width. It will not be reconstructed but merely improved by scarifying and rolling with new asphalt.

Kept Promise!

It's beginning to look like James E. Ferguson's promise to his dog is going to come true. When "Jim" was impeached as governor of Texas eight years ago, the dog, then only two years old, seemed disconsolate as the rest of the family in leaving the capital at Austin. "Never mind," Ferguson told him, "you will live to see the Fergusons in the governor's house again." And now Ferguson's wife, Mrs. Miriam E. Ferguson, has won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination — and her fight for "Jim's" vindication. And since Texas is a Democratic state, her nomination practically means election. Here "Ma" Ferguson is seen with "Jim's" dog

Leaves on Log Wagon, Returns as a Tourist

Leaving his home in Hancock county, Tenn., on a log wagon thirty-seven years ago for Knoxville from which point he journeyed to the West, W. M. Trail is back in his native mountains visiting his nephew James Johnson and family.

Mr. Trail left the mountains when the site now occupied by Middlesboro was a wilderness. He got his first glimpse of the outside world as a boy when he made a trip to Chattanooga on a log raft. Realizing that the scope of his career would necessarily be limited in the then undeveloped mountain the then undeveloped mountains, Mr. Trail went to Texas where he became a rancher.

Later he went to Oklahoma city and established a hotel of which he is still proprietor. He is surprised at the development of the mountainous section of the country since he left and made many favorable comments on Middlesboro.

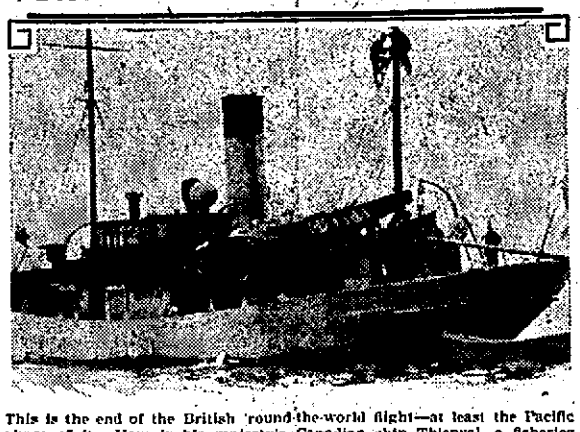
The End of the British Flight!



This is the end of the British 'round-the-world flight—at least the Pacific phase of it. Here is his majesty's Canadian ship Thiepval, a fisheries cruiser, arriving at Vancouver, B. LEGION TO AID IN CIVIC WORK

Band, Street Decorations, Prize Fight, Planned at Executive Meeting.

Plans for street decorations with American flags, for promoting a prize fight here during the Bakers' convention in October, formation of a local band and disposing of cases of mendicancy were discussed at the meeting of Amerian Legion officers here last night.

Preliminary arrangements for the street decorations will be left to the committee composed of Dr. E. D. Wells and Jimmy Smith. The Legion proposes to take permanent charge of the decorations which will be large American flags placed in the regulation manner uniformly along the business section streets. Local business men will be asked to finance the work.

The flags will be four feet by six, mounted on a twelve-foot pole, the lower end of which will rest in a hole at the curb. When not in use the hole will be covered by a cap. The flags will be placed about fifty feet apart on Cumberland avenue, according to present plans, and the legion will have charge of them, seeing that all Federal regulations regarding flag etiquette are carried out. It is thought that the decorations will be put in use about September 15. All business men who have been interviewed on the subject are enthusiastic over the idea and are glad that the Legion is putting forward the movement which is in keeping with dignified street decorations in keeping with the spirit of the American Legion.

It was pointed out that the fight could be promoted here during the Bakers' convention, October 7-8 as a part of the amusement program for the visitors. The Legion will sponsor a clean fight, handled in a high class manner, and Jimmy Smith was instructed to get definite information concerning pugilists he could bring here and to report such at the next meeting.

I. J. Walls was given full authority to make arrangements for the organization of a band. He explained that C. G. Elwell had offered his services as director free of charge until the band is self-supporting, and that the only money required would be for the purchase of sheet music.

Commander L. D. Rouser, who presided at the executive meeting, stated that a number of men purporting to be ex-service men had been in town recently asking aid from the Legion. A committee composed of R. L. Maddox and G. H. Talbott was appointed to handle such matters and refer such applicants to the Red Cross or the Salvation Army as the case might require.

Famous Russian Artists Now Retired

Associated Press.

KUOKKOLA, Finland, Aug. 27—Almost forgotten by a world that once adored him, Ilya Repine, one of the foremost Russian painters of his generation, recently celebrated his eightieth birthday. He is living in seclusion here, nursed by his daughter.

It was Repine who, back in 1869, led the revolt against the Petersburg Academy of Art, which had become thoroughly stagnant and unwilling to accept any new ideas.

Repine turned exclusively to Russian national themes. Russian sagas and fairy tales often supplied the theme. He was also fond of depicting the life of the submerged masses of Russia with a realism and fearlessness which would have landed him in jail had he not been so prominent.

MONEY MOTIVE IN BOYS' CRIME SAYS ATTORNEY

Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—Money was the controlling motive in the kidnapping and murder of Bobby Bobby Franks, State's Attorney Robert Crowe argued today. Continuing the plea before Judge Caverly for the death penalty for Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, Crowe read a lengthy private report of the two alienists which, he said, was 'Never intended for the state's attorney."

Excerpts revealed what the state's attorney declared was the real motive for the crime.

"Money, money, money, it is all through the case and I will show that they needed it to pay gambling debts," the prosecutor shouted.

Crowe charged that the youths collaborated with the attorneys and doctors in improving "this weird, uncanny defense." One of the excerpts read asserted that there would be "a certain legal advantage suppression of some details of the boys' mental processes."

LOCAL MINES PREPARING TO RESUME WORK

Operators Report Recent Stimulation Coal Business.

CONGRESS TO OPEN

Working Days Increased at Yellow Creek—Climax May Resume Work Next Month.

After an extended period of lethargy the coal situation is brightening in the Middlesboro vicinity. Mines which have been shut down for months are preparing to resume operation and others which have been running are increasing the number of working days.

Failure to settle the labor troubles in Western Kentucky has undoubtedly had a salutory effect on the local coal business. There was a notable slump in the market when the information that the men expected to return to work Monday gained publicity. When not a man answered the call of the mine whistles, buyers began to place orders in other fields.

Operators in this vicinity are now beginning not only to get business but also to have a part in fixing the price. During the dull season they have been accustomed to taking whatever price was offered, one operator stated today.

The Congress mine, which has been shut down for about seven months will open Monday, according to present plans. It is expected to run four or five days per week, an official of the firm stated today. Work preliminary to opening the mine is now in progress.

The Climax mines is also preparing to resume operation but it will probably be two or three weeks before they start, according to information received today. Practically all mines report a much large number of inquiries and some orders recently.

The Yellow Creek mines which have heretofore been operated only two days per week are now running four days, and the firm reports that prospects, in general, look much brighter.

LICENSE THE DRIVER

Registration of all operators of motor vehicles is a safety measure which the Louisville Automobile Club has contended for and will fight for in the next session of the Kentucky Legislature.

With the increased use of motor vehicles, it is imperative that the law enforcing instrumentalities more additional means of regulating drivers of motor vehicles. It has become apparent that the penalties provided for in our motor vehicle laws are inadequate in curbing reckless drivers, especially those who continuously disregard traffic rules, property and even human life. Unquestionably the large majority of motorists are law abiding citizens, and the mere fact that they are placed behind the steering wheel of an automobile does not, like a wave of a wand, turn them into outlaws. Nevertheless, there are some drivers who utterly lack a sense of responsibility in the operation of a motor vehicle and it is to this class of people that the Louisville Automobile Club proposes to pass a law so that they may be eliminated and taken off the streets and roads to the end that our highways may become a safe place on which to drive and pedestrians to cross.

The Louisville Automobile Club proposes that before any one is permitted to operate a motor vehicle in the State of Kentucky he must first obtain a driver's license. This license shall be procured by satisfactory answers to a prepared questionnaire. In general, the questionairre should ask concerning the mental, physical and mechanical qualifications of the applicant. Accompanying the questionnaire should be a statement from a property owner or housekeeper stating that he knows the applicant; that the answers are true and that he is sober and discreet.

Upon the filing of the questionnaire and accompanying statement the applicant should receive a card containing his name, address and personal description. This card must be carried whenever operating a motor vehicle and a penalty shall be provided for a failure so to do. The driver's license so issued shall cost a reissuance of these license unless same has been revoked and then only according to the terms of the revocation.

It has been the experience of our Legal Department that accidents, and especially severe ones, are the result of, not so much the inexperienced drivers, but rather the careless and irresponsible ones. This latter class can only be reached through revocation, which reason the Automobile Club stands ready and willing, and will lead the fight for this law.

THE OPEN FORUM

Capt Steinhour's Statement

Editor Daily News:

I wish to state that the rumor that I have given five dollars or any other amount or contributed to the support of any other activity out of the Salvation Army money is untrue, and neither have I given it out of my own pocket, neither have I pledged any amount.

We do not carry on a loose business. Every cent of Salvation Army money is very closely investigated, before spent, and records kept of same, also a voucher is received and kept on file. Our books are audited every three months.

So the people who pick up die tales such as this, and have nothing else to do but talk about them, would take time to investigate and find the truth, such just causes as the Salvation Army would get less criticism and more support, and we would be able to do much more and a greater workin the city.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

Washington —Particular emphasis is to be placed, in Republican pictorial publications, on the comparative simplicity and humbleness of the "homes of the candidates."

Much material for this line of campaign "suggestion" was developed during President Coolidge's stay at the little story and a half home of his father at the crossroads village of Plymouth, Vt.

Here in the hillside meadow, in the maple lot, on the narrow little porch of the plain little house, the president was pictured amid surroundings which are counted on to help drive home in the minds of the voters the view that he, more than either of the other two candidates, springs directly from and is representative of the average thrifty farmer, hard working, honest, and simple, unaffected type of the American citizenship

But this Plymouth, Vt., home, it may be pointed out, is the home of Calvin's father. What kind of a home does he have himself?

Ah! That's just the question his campaign managers hoped to have asked.

Yes Coolidge maintains a home in Northampton, Mass., it's the same home he occupied as governor of Massachussetts But it's not the sort of house the average governor occupies

It is just one half of a small frame "double house" on a quiet side street. He doesn't even own it. Each month he signs a check for $21 to pay the rental. It's a more modest house and a more modest rental than is paid by thousands of merchants, clerks and salaried tradespeople.

By contrast with these two "homes" of Calvin Coolidge —the simple boyhood home in the "rugged" Vermont hills and the modest home of his manhood in the county seat of Hampshire county, Massachussetts—will be shown the residences of John W Davis, Democratic candidate, and Robert M LaFollette, Independent crusader.

The ancestral home of Davis looms large and imposing by contrast with any of the residences occupied by Coolidge, boy or man.

It was one of the show places of Clarksburg, W. Va., a big, roomy, high ceilinged house set in a broad expanse of lawn; just such a home as a prosperous "leading lawyer" in a prosperous growing city was accustomed to build in the Victorian era.

Supplementing this "boy-hood home" of the Democratic candidate will be handsome, modern "Locust Valley estate" of his mature years, one of the "show places" of Long Island. The $21 monthly cost of the Coolidge Northampton home wouldn't be rent for the Davis garage, Republican publicists point out.

Much stress will be placed on the luxurious home of the Democratic candidate as contrasted with the modest democratic home of the G. O. P. nominee.

No less emphasis, however, will be placed pictorially on the Washington abode of Senator Robert M. LaFollette.

The old three story brick residence occupied by LaFollette on Wyoming avenue looks quite pretentious in pictures. Touched up a bit by an artist, it appears even impressive.

"This," says the captain of one sarcastic Republican heading for a picture of the La Follette home, "is the 'humble cot' where La Follette lies awake nights worrying about the downtrodden American masses."

One familiar with local conditions, however, knows that a house of the vintage of the LaFollette residence is no longer in demand, and probably would rent for about as much as a five-room suite in a modern fashionable apartment building.

But in the pictures it surely does look like Bob was spending half his senatorial salary to put on a "front."

Bob's log cabin birthplace is not shown.

MAMMOTH CAVE TO BE VISITED

Park Committee Will Inspect With View Making it National Park.

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Aug 27—The Southern Appalachian Natolnal park committee, appointed by Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, to visit potential national park sites and make recommendations to the interior department, will visit Mammoth Cave before making its final report, Glenn D. Smith, secretary, has notified the Louisville automobile club.

The date of the visit of the committee has not been determined, but officials of the automobile club, which has interested itself in the movement to make the cave a national park, has begun a campaign to revive interest in the project.

"Within a decade," the club asserts, "The question as to whether or not this great natural wonder of the world will become a national park or is to remain a private enterprise will have been decided for another hundred years The club based its prediction upon the fact that Mrs. Serena Rodgers, of San Francisco, last heir to the cave under the will of Col. John Croghan, is more than ninety years old and is of infirm health.

Upon the death of Mrs. Rodgers, the property at the cave must be sold at auction to the highest bidder, the Croghan will, made in 1849, directs. The cave rights and 1,800 acres of land are included in the tract.

According to the club, the properties of the colossal cavern company, now owned by a railroad company, composed of 1,081 acres in fee and 2,305 acres of cave rights, will be donated to the government when the old Croghan property becomes public domain.

USES PLANES IN CAMPAIGN WORK

German Minister Goes on Speaking Tour In Airplane—Train Too Slow.

Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Foreign Minister Stresemann holds the record among European statesmen for the number of airplane flights made during the last few months in connection with the performance of his duties. He has been making frequent speeches in the provinces this summer, chiefly explaining Germany's stand on the question of reparations, and he always travels by air.

Travel by train is slow, and furthermore, Mr. Stresemann says he has found that flying has a very stimulating effect. He sometimes delivers two or three addresses a day in different towns, making the jump from one locality to another in an airplane assigned him by the government aviation authorities. He is accompanied by one of the best aviators in the German service.

LEAGUE READY TO COMBAT MALARIA

League of Nations Committee to Try to Stamp Out Plague In Europe.

Associated Press.

GENEVA, Aug. 27.—Malignant malaria, which has made especially serious ravages in Russia, is now being given a thorough investigation by a special League of Nations commission which is touring the affected regions of Europe. An Italian expert, Doctor Lutario, is chairman of the commission, which includes physicians from Germany, France, Spain, Great Britain, Holland, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia and Russia.

Already the experts have spent eighteen days in Jugo-Slaxia Their itinerary includes Poland and finally Russia. In both Russia and the Ukraine the commission will study the principal malaria regions and, coming back to Moscow, will be shown the workings of the central health organization and particularly the anti-malarial work of the Russian Health service. It will also take part in a Moscow conference on malaria, arranged by the Soviet authorities.

The next meeting of the council of the League will have before it an exhaustive report on the whole question of malaria in southern and eastern Europe, and the health organization of the League will be enabled to arrange new international methods of combat.

GERMANS WANT U. S TOURISTS

Americans in Fatherland Now Confronted with High Prices for Articles.

Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—American tourists are coming to Germany again in sufficient numbers to arouse the hope that possibly by fall this business will again assume proportions something like normal.

But where the tourists spent weeks or months in Germany a year ago, during the inflation period of the paper mark, they now remain a comparatively short time because of the high prices. Since the introduction of the renten mark last November the cost of living has risen two or three fold what it was when the printing presses had much difficulty in keeping up with the demand for paper currency.

Government officials representatives of the hotel keepers' association have been working for months upon a plan designed to reduce the cost of travel and living in Germany for tourists, but as yet no definite conclusions have been reached.

Tourist agencies which were operating sight-seeing cars from Strasbourg to Cologne by way of Mayence and through Coblence, Bonn and other historic points along the Rhine, have abandoned the service because of the high prices for meals and rooms in the Garman hotels, and the refusal of travelers to meet the increased rates.

HARDY SIBERIAN PEAR IS SOUGHT

Siberian Steppes May Yield Fruit Hardy Enough for Extremes in Climate.

Associated Press.

BROOKINGS, S. D., Aug. 27.—N E Hansen, South Dakota's "agricultural explorer," whose trips to Asiatic countries in quest of fruits and plants adaptable to the climate of the northwest have paid dividends of inestimable extent to farmers of the Dakotas, is embarking upon his sixth trip to the Siberian steppes, this time in quest of a pear hardy enough to withstand the extremes of South Dakota climate.

Dr. Hansen is on his way westward to embark for Vladivostok, financed by a $20,000 appropriation of the South Dakota legislature

Already the contribution of the Cossack alfalfa and of the hardy Hansen hybrid plum, which has been developed to mature in Dakota's short summers, Dr. Hansen declared that the cold fastness of northern Siberia hold various other fruits and agricultural species which may be adapted to this climate. His five previous journeys of exploration have resulted in the introduction to the northwest of the Turkestan, Siberian and other alfalfa breeds, a host of hybridizations of orchard fruits, and gricultural species which may be adapted to this climate. His five previous journeys of exploration to the northwest of the Turkestan, Siberian and other alfalfa breeds, a host of hybridizations of orchard fruits, and several varieties of hardy roses. And when he returned from Siberia in 1918 he brought a product outside his specific province, a Siberian "fat-rumped" sheep, which has shown itself capable of surviving the rigors of South Dakota winters.

Cossack alfalfa, which is regarded as Dr. Hansen's masterpiece, now widely grown in the northwest, was developed fro ma spoonful of seed in 1906 to more than a thousand bushels of seed in 1916, and its culture is spreading as rapidly as seed is available.

Dr. Hansen is certain his present quest for a hardy pear, adaptable to Dakota climate, will be successful. "I know it is there," he said "it is only a question of finding good specimens of a variety known to exist, and of developing them to resist blight South Dakota has failed to raise pears chiefly because of this blight. It kills the trees."

PACER IMPROVES AFTER 10TH YEAR

"Single G," Veteran Trotter, Getting Better With Passing of Time.

Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Aug. 27.—"Single G," 14-year old veteran of the harness racing circuits, is improving with age, despite the general belief that a horse's best days are past when it reaches its tenth year. This remarkable animal, which eleven years ago made her maiden start over a mile course at Peoria, Illinois, and finished third in a race on the same day in which the world's record was shattered by "William," in another race, still is the talk of the harness racing fraternity. "William," in making his debut, established a record of 2 05. He and all other racing mates of "Single G" in that day have gone, but the great pacer is more active than ever.

Single G" established a record of 1:58½ in negotiating the mile in her tenth year of racing last season, and today, in her eleventh year in harness, she promises to do as well or better, according to followers of the circuit races.

According to racing authorities "Single G" has surpassed the record of all harness race horses of the two minute class or better, and they declare her now to be one of the greatest pacers in harness.

"Little Gyp" mare of no recognized breeding, was the dam of "Single G," while "Anderson Wilkes," rated as a good horse in his day and a leading son of "Onward," was her sire. Ed Allen, veteran driver, who has been the trainer of "Single G," is always in the seat when she steps around the circuit. She is the property of W. B. Barefoot of Cambridge City, Indiana.

Dangerous ONLY to the Careless—

Safety is not a one-man job! Despite the precautions that the railroads have employed to safeguard the public against accident and death, thru warning signals, watchmen, crossing gates, etc., preventable disasters continue to occur.

Do your part in the great safety campaign being conducted by this and other American railroads. Let the trains have the right of way; the tracks were made for them and they cannot change their course to prevent an accident. Wait until the train stops before you attempt to get on or off. Do not use railroad tracks as a passageway or a loitering place. They are dangerous only to trespassers. Help us to save life and protect against accident.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad spends nearly a million dollars a year for the single purpose of maintaining constant supervision over the condition of its tracks—350 track walkers are employed and every day they walk every mile of the main tracks of the road; inspecting rails, trestles, bridges, etc. When you are on the train, every precaution is taken for your safety. Do as much to protect yourself when off the trains.

Common sense—Caution—Co-operation—will pay big dividends in health and happiness.

FLOWER MARKET

'n the grey November haze
Gold and scarlet flowers shine
Like a moveless line
Of torches all ablaze
Down the long row
Behind the flowers, slow
The faces of old women, framed
In shawls as gay as my garden
Blatant youth is shamed
There age is so serenely young,
These faces never harden.
Buy smile at me, hold up their prize
Boquets to catch my wandering eyes.
Good day, good day, it's going to rain!'
I nod and swing my cane
This old woman brought to town
Her good cat, Hilda, to insist,
Her talk, she looking kindly down
On the grey whiskers rimed with mist
And great gold eyes, while Hilda's purrs
Denote what happiness is hers
Flower-cat and woman who
Could decently resist the two?
How much for these red dahlias here?
'wo kroner? Yes, they're cheap this year —
Ah, thank you! She adjusts her shawl
To shelter Hilda from the showers
Down the shining line I go,
Flowers and faces in a row,
Through the drizzle smoke and glow,
Dear ladies, I'm in love with all
Of you, and all your flowers!

Belt Hutchison Wedding Today

The wedding of Miss Wilmuth Frances Hutchison, of this city, and Mr. Tower Enoch Belt, of Evansville, Ind., took place today at noon in the presence of a few friends at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. B. J. Sparks on North Twenty-fifth street. For the occasion the large reception room was artistically decorated with a profusion of yellow and white flowers.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Wilmuth Westerfield sang "Until" and "At Dawning," with Miss Virginia Warren at the piano. To the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bride and groom elect took their station under the wedding bell where the beautiful ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. I. Martin of Bartow, Florida.

The bride's dress was of pink with grey accessories. Her bouquet consisted of Ophelia roses and lillies of the valley.

They spent an hour in the cave viewing its many places of interest and returned with souvenirs of the stalactites and stalagmites in such quantities as to nearly weight the girls to such an extent as to make it easy for them to slide down the declivities, but rather tedious to climb up the slippery incline.

REGISTER AND WIN IS MAYS' MESSAGE TO G. O. P. VOTERS

Republican State Campaign Chairman Says Victory Can Be Assured in Registration

Kentucky Republicans can make sure of rolling up a big majority this fall for Coolidge, Dawes and Sackett in the next two weeks according to Senator Wm. O. Mays of Richmond chairman of the Republican State Campaign Committee.

Election of the National Ticket and of Fred M. Sackett for United States Senator can be and should be assured, Senator Mays pointed out on Monday and Tuesday, September 8 and 9 when the first registration under the new state law takes place in the sixty Kentucky cities of the first, second, third and fourth class.

"Victory on November 4th will be in sight, he said, if every Republican in these sixty towns entitled to do so goes to the polls and registers on one or the other of the two registration days.

Under the new law, registration is moved forward four weeks, to a time when the average voter has not become greatly interested in campaign questions. Voters should remember, however, that this will be the last time they will have to register, so long as they continue to live in their same voting precincts.

"It is an important part of the duty of every Republican in this city, said Senator Mays, 'to see to it that all citizens who will vote for the National Ticket, for Mr. Sackett and for safe and sound Government are registered on September 8th or September 9th."

"Every Republican not registered on one or the other of these days means that a vote is lost to the Republican ticket. No other chance to register will be given except to those few actually absent from the county during the whole time of registration and to those prevented from registering this time by their own illness or by deaths in their immediate families.
